

WRITINGTHE SECOND TERM*VARIANT 1*1. Rewrite the following sentences using the Gerund and the words in brackets.

1) I want to see this new comedy programme very much. (to look forward to)

2) Pam would like to listen to music. (to prefer)

3) My parents agreed to buy me a new mobile phone for my birthday. (not to mind)

4) Greg doesn't like to speak about his plans for the future. (to hate)

5) Witty said we could send him an e-mail letter. (suggest)

2. Complete the dialogues with the correct modal verbs.1) should, must, can

— I hurry or I'll be late for the conference.

— You take a taxi if you want to be in time. By the way, you take my car.
I don't need it today.

2) may, could, have to

— you spell your name, please?

— A-n-d-e-r-s-o-n.

— Thank you, Mr Anderson. Now you fill in this questionnaire and wait for the invitation to our club.

— I ask you for a pen to fill in the questionnaire?

— Here you are.

3. Report the dialogue.

Kate: Have you finished your project yet?

Dolly: Not yet. I can't find the information I need.

Kate: Where do you look for information?

Dolly: I usually go to the library.

Kate: Why don't you use the Internet? You can find necessary information there.

Dolly: I can't use the Internet. Will you help me?

Kate: OK.

4. You have just returned from your holidays.

Write a letter of 80—100 words to your friend including the following points: where you were; what you saw; what the weather was like; whether you liked the food; what you enjoyed most about the trip.

WRITINGTHE SECOND TERM*VARIANT 2*1. Rewrite the following sentences using the Gerund and the words in brackets.

1) Martin agreed to take part in the school concert. (not to mind)

2) My granny likes to watch this show in the evening very much. (to enjoy)

3) Andy said we could look for the information on the Internet. (to suggest)

4) They would like to go on a trip by train. (to prefer)

5) Sally doesn't like to discuss her problems with her friends very much. (to hate)

2. Complete the dialogues with the correct modal verbs.1) can, have to, could — you tell your address, Mrs Hammond, please?

— Yes. It's Ruby Lane 38.

— Thank you. Now you wait for a minute?

I agree the time of your visit with the manager.

2) should, may, must

— I go to the cinema, Mum?

— Yes, but first you tidy your room. And you put on a warm sweater because it may be cool in the evening.

3. Report the dialogue.

Bob: Have you taken any photos for our school project?

Henry: Not yet. Something is wrong with my digital camera.

Bob: Why don't you use the camera in your mobile phone then?

Henry: It doesn't take high-quality photos.

Bob: You can borrow my camera.

Henry: In this case we can take photos together.

Bob: OK.

4. You have just seen a new TV programme.

Write a short essay (80—100 words) about it including the following points: what channel the programme was on; what time it started and how long it was; what it was about; say what you liked and disliked in it; recommend or don't recommend to watch this programme. Give reasons why.
