Crossing the Atlantic by Raft for WaterAid

Anthony Smith and his crew of the An-Tiki arrive in Philipsburg, St. Maarten after 66 days at sea.

After 66 days at sea, a grandfather from London and his three-man crew have successfully crossed the Atlantic on a raft made of pipes.

Anthony Smith, 85, wanted to complete the 2,800-mile voyage to highlight the fact that a billion people worldwide live without clean water.

The former BBC Tomorrow's World science correspondent and presenter hoped to collect £50,000 for the charity WaterAid. They set sail from the Canary Islands and reached the Caribbean 66 days later. Mr. Smith recruited the team of "mature and daring gentlemen" - aged between 56 and 61 - by placing an advert in the Daily Telegraph. It read: "Fancy rafting across the Atlantic? Famous traveller requires 3 crew. Must be OAP (old age pensioner). Serious adventurers only."

Speaking ahead of the trip Mr Smith said: "Water strikes at the very heart of need. To voyage almost 3,000 miles upon the salty kind will make us intensely aware of places in the world that are without adequate supplies."

Their vessel, named the An-Tiki, was constructed out of 39 foot lengths of pipe. It was powered by a 400-square-foot sail and travelled at an average speed of four knots. The crew had intended to end their voyage in the Bahamas, but strong winds and currents forced them to the Dutch Caribbean island of St. Maarten.

Crew member John Russell, 61, from Stroud, said he was looking forward to 'having a nice shower and washing the salt off me and having a nice steak to eat. We haven't had fresh food for a long time. We've been living out of tins. Our fresh fruit and vegetables ran out a long time ago."

DO SCHOOL LIBRARIES STILL NEED BOOKS?

In an era of Internet research and downloadable books, some educators question the need for printed collections.

An online library cannot replace the unique collection of resources that I - like many school librarians - have built over a period of years (17) of my students, faculty, and the school's curriculum.

One of my primary responsibilities as a librarian is to teach information-literacy skills - including defining research questions, avoiding plagiarism, and documenting sources. In my experience, this works best face-to-face with students. That personal interaction is supported by the electronic availability of materials but (18)

Librarians also encourage reading, which (19) Focused reading is more likely to occur with printed books than with online material.

Today's students shouldn't miss out on the unique pleasure of getting lost in a physical book. Research shows that the brain functions differently when (20) and different formats complement different learning styles.

Unlike an e-reader or a laptop, which may provide access to many books but (21), a printed book is a relatively inexpensive information-delivery system that is not dependent on equipment, power, or bandwidth for its use.

One of the beauties of libraries is that we keep up with new technologies, but (22) We don't have to choose between technology and printed books, and we shouldn't.

- A it's a simple matter for a savvy to find them
 - B we also hold on to the old things that work well
 - C is crucial to student success
 - D to serve the specific needs
 - E is limited to a single user
 - F reading online versus reading a book
 - G provide several chapters to read free
 - H is not replaced by it

By the early 20th century Afrikaans had (25) from Dutch, German and other influences into a(n) (26) independent language with its own dictionaries. It is the third most spoken language in South Africa (Zulu being the most spoken, the Zulu people being the largest ethnic group there).

New languages develop as different cultures meet and (27) For instance about 700 different languages are spoken in London. In some suburbs of big cities (28) London and New York, English is now a second language. The same is happening - or has taken place - in cities such as Los Angeles, Miami and Singapore. Already the Internet and mobile phone texting are (29)..... the development of languages as people communicate (30) across cultural and regional borders.

The smallest country in the world is the Vatican. It also is the only country where Latin is the (31) language. Somalia is the only country in the world where all the (32) speak one language, Somali.

ARNOLD VAN PRAAG

Arnold van Praag is a member of that illustrious generation of artists who studied at the Slade School in (33)

The figures he paints are not formal portraits, directly (34) from the model, but come from the memory or imagination.

Glowing colours and rich dark tones (35) on to the canvas with lush, untidy brushstrokes, giving a great sense of (36) and life. In Evening Walk just the contemplative head of the walker is shown against a turbulent sky in gathering darkness. In Painting, the figure is squeezed modestly into a corner, against the vivid colours of the poster behind. It is an excellent example of (37) tender eye for the dramas of everyday life.
